Thanksgiving is a time for family, friends, and food. But for Broom Hilda, it's also a time for adventure.

When Broom Hilda's friends invite her to spend Thanksgiving with them, she's thrilled. But when she arrives, she finds that they're not exactly what she expected.

Johnson, the family's patriarch, is a grumpy old man who spends most of his time watching TV. His wife, Mildred, is a kind-hearted woman who's always trying to please her husband. And their daughter, Susan, is a shy and awkward teenager.

Broom Hilda is determined to make the best of her Thanksgiving, even if it means spending it with a family that's not quite her own.

As the day goes on, Broom Hilda learns that there's more to the Johnsons than meets the eye. Johnson is a lonely man who just wants to be loved. Mildred is a strong woman who's always putting others before herself. And Susan is a sweet girl who's just trying to find her place in the world.

Broom Hilda helps the Johnsons to see the best in themselves. And in return, they help her to see the true meaning of Thanksgiving.
